This Code sets out the principles of corporate conduct to guide our action and take decisions as Employees, Representatives and, even, Third Parties related with the Group.

2. What is the purpose of the Code of Conduct?

- The purpose of this Code is to provide an ethics guide, comprising behaviour guidelines and principles that should rule the action and decision-making within the organisation of all the Group's Employees, Representatives and even Third Parties.

Throughout its history Duro Felguera Group has had a business commitment to the different players making up the market in which this operates and with which its Representatives and its Employees interact. This commitment is on the ethical principles and behaviour guidelines which guide how the Group works and which form part of its corporate culture. In addition, the purpose of this Code is to provide a response to the ethical standards of our groups of interest and of the market in general, strengthening the confidence that should exist between all the parties and the Group's reputation.

- With regard to the Group's Employees, this Code of Conduct aims at making each of us understood what is expected of us, irrespective of our professional category or degree of entailment with the Group, as well as the reason why we should act with transparency, objectivity, integrity, responsibility, honesty and respect.
- The general application of this Code will ensure the respect of not only the Group's behaviour guidelines and principles, but also of the applicable legal regulations. The Code is therefore compulsory for all the Employees, Representatives and Third Parties who directly or indirectly act for and on behalf of Duro Felguera Group.
